Trainings Available Through the CDC for Health Care Providers

The Agency for Health Care Administration is sharing training materials and other guidance provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the Florida Department of Health (DOH) to assist facilities and other providers in infection control and prevention.

When providers are administering care to patients and residents in their homes or at a health care facility, appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE) must be used, including facemasks and gloves. It is key that providers are following infection prevention and control protocols when putting on and taking off PPE.

To assist providers in ensuring they are following infection prevention and control protocols, the Agency recommends review of trainings available on the CDC website. The CDC also offers COVID-19-related training through the TRAIN Learning Network.

For providers providing care in the home, DOH has developed materials about managing respiratory symptoms at home (http://ww11.doh.state.fl.us/comm/_partners/action/10_things_cdc_flhealth.pdf) as well as how to protect yourself when someone in the home has COVID-19

The Agency for Health Care Administration is committed to better health care for all Floridians. The Agency administers Florida's Medicaid program, licenses and regulates more than 44,000 health care facilities and 53 health plans, and publishes health care data and statistics at www.FloridaHealthFinder.gov.
